

Abstract

The electrode system (13) for a high-pressure discharge lamp comprises at least a pin-like shank (4) having a filament (5), fitted in the vicinity of the discharge-side free end, as its head and a connection part (8) connected to the filament, an encircling winding (11) being fitted to the connection part (8), filament and winding being connected to one another via a spacer (24).